We booked this trip via Expedia, this was to include hotel pick up/drop off but there was no where to enter the hotel details - we ended up emailing and luckily this was sorted before we left the UK

We drove out of dubai and stopped at a petrol station where we were told we could buy some food and drink and go to the toilet (I was expecting refreshments as part of the event but none were provided).

On the day we were told to be ready for pickup at 7am the driver was late but he did text us to let us know he was on his way

Once we got there we were given a short briefing on how to use the quadbikes and then followed out one of the guys into the desert. We were provided with helmets.
